September 30 ~ National Day for Truth and Reconciliation & Orange Shirt Day

September 30th marks National Day for Truth and Reconciliation and Orange Shirt Day.

What is Orange Shirt Day?

On Orange Shirt Day and now the National Day for Truth and Reconciliation, we wear orange shirts to honour the First Nation, Métis and Inuit children who were taken from their families and communities to be sent away to residential schools in Canada. The days surrounding Orange Shirt Day are an important time to learn more about the history of those schools. We provide this information because learning about residential schools in Canada and their continuing effects felt by Indigenous communities today is new learning for many people.
